

PLEASE ANNOUNCE TO YOUR STUDENTS

The English Department of Concordia University presents its annual Lahey Lecture

Natalie Zemon Davis

(Princeton University and University of Toronto)

“The Knot of Slavery: Joanna and Stedman in Suriname”

[2001]

Thursday, November 29th, 8:30 P.M.
Hall Building, Auditorium 110

Natalie Zemon Davis is a world renowned author of numerous significant and innovative books in the areas of history, literary and film studies and cultural studies, including The Return of Martin Guerre (Harvard, 1983, which was made into a film starring Gerard Depardieu), Women on the Margins: Three Seventeenth-Century Lives (Harvard, 1995), Slaves on Screen: Film and Historical Vision (Harvard, 2000), and The Gift in Sixteenth-Century France (Oxford, 2000). She has published over a hundred articles in scholarly journals, periodicals and books, has taught at the most eminent universities across America, Canada, England and France, and has recently been awarded the Arnold Toynbee Prize (2000), Sidney Hook Memorial Award (2000), and the Aby Warburg Prize (2001) for her scholarly achievements.

PLEASE ANNOUNCE TO YOUR STUDENTS